THEATRICAL NEWS

EMPIRE.

Miss Mabel Spencer, as Pamela Gordon, most fervent of the non-haters, carried off the honors of the initial production of "Girls," at the Empire last night. All members of the cast played well but Miss Spencer excelled the rest in the brilliancy and naturalness of her performance. In the role that was admirably suited to her talents.

"Girls," is a Clyde Fitch comedy of recent manufacture and while the plot is not very complicated, the play has all the technical excellence including many bright and witty lines, that only a master hand can give.

The story is of three girls who think they are non-haters and who run a hatcher parlor flat. The game, however, gets a bit too strong for them and they succumb in turn to the wiles of real producers.

Mr. M. E. Hake to whom we are entrusted the leading role, as Edgar W. Holt, was a typically clever New York actor and proved a great success. Miss Gordon's dancing with the wiles on mankind in general and particular.

The vandale between the acts was not very attractive and could be omitted without decreasing the value of the show.

"Girls," will be repeated tonight and Wednesday afternoon.

THE DAY AT BRIGHTON

Earl of Pawlowski Has a Bright Time at the Seaside House

In speaking of Shoreham, England, where he has his summer home, Lawrence D'Orsey said, "One of the pleasant things about Shoreham is that you can take a run down to Brighton which is very near my place and really I know of no more delightful spot to spend a day in than Brighton. If you are so careful as to avoid going there on a bank holiday."

"Brighton is full of the memories of the coaching days of the fastest and well as they blended with the coaching of today because of the fact that it is quite the proper time to coach from London to the old Ship Tavern at Brighton now just as it was in the days of Dickens wrote so delicately, 'I want there one day this pastel summer'."

The people you meet at Brighton are of the most interesting kind. I don't think you can go to Brighton and not meet some of the most interesting people in the world."

NEW CAUSE FOR CANADA'S VERDICT

Woodrow Wilson Says That We Dis-trusted the Feversh U. S. Business Wives

Hackensack, N.J., Oct. 24.—District of the Feversh and disturbed American business, saying we Canada refused for rejecting reciprocity, in the opinion of Governor Woodrow Wilson. Speaking at a local celebration here last night, the governor told his hearers that Canada is a general foe of the United States in the regulation of corporate business, in her banking system and in her currency system.

He said that business across the border is run here as sane reformers want it to be run on this side. The reason that the Canadians demand reciprocity is that they do not want to be run on this side. In the United States business is run on the basis of confidence and hope. They did not want to be pulled down into our distrust.

Montreal, Oct. 24.—The C.P.R. shipping department has been taking a little census of its own. As a result it has found that when the two new ships now being built in England for the company's coasting service in British Columbia are completed, there will be a total of 76 vessels flying the Canadian flag. These vessels, if put into service, would cover a distance of three and a half miles. The land and sea routes of the shipping department employ 12,000 men, 3,000 of whom are employed on the coasting service.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER

The announcement is made that Miss Anna Day, the sterling American actress, and her company, will visit this city for an engagement of two nights at the Empire theatre, on the 25th and 26th inst.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower" The play was dramatized some seasons ago by the late, well known American playwright, John Galsworthy. Major's account of chivalry, and the love story, whereby Miss Anna Day achieved one of her greatest stage triumphs.

This season, Mr. William K. Sparks, secured the original Marlowe scenes, costumes and properties, and it is said that the play this season is being given the most elaborate stage setting since it began its career as a road company, after Julia Marlowe had relinquished her rights to it. One thing is certain, Miss Day's manager, Mr. Sparks, has spared her money no pains to give the theatre-goers their money's worth.

Miss Day, who Miss Day would not be amiss, has been given a full program that will take in all the principal, effects of Canada and the United States. In many of these, she has been seen before, where her charming personality had made for her many warm and true friends among the theatre-goers. This is Miss Day's third season in the character of Mary Marlowe, having been once under the management of Mr. Ernest Shipman and the previous season with Mr. Frank Price.

WIRELESS NEEDED IN MURRAY CAMP

"MOCCASIN TELEGRAPH" NO LONGER SERVES PURPOSES OF OIL REGIONS

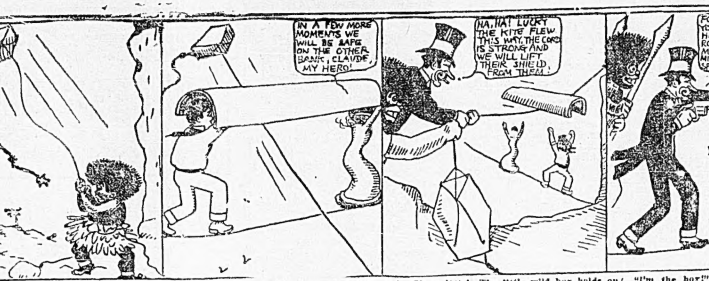

One of the crying necessities of the Fort McMurray country and one that could be provided at comparatively small expense is a system of wireless communication with Athabasca Landing, from where all messages could be sent to the outside world by the ordinary telegraph. At least this is the opinion of R. L. Bryant, who has spent the past summer in the isolation of the north and experienced the inconvenience of being cut off from the outside world. Desperate Desmond

Under the shelter of the hollow log, Claude F. air, here, and a beautiful Desmond rush away from the villain who after a long chase, is now in the hands of the police. The police are interested by the story of the "Wild Men" and the fact that the man who is now in the hands of the police is the same man who was in the hands of the police at the time of the last chase.

The Villain, Aided by an Unsuspecting Kite Flyer, Once More Gets the Lovers in His Power.

There is a little bird who is in the hands of the police. The bird is a kite flyer, and it is the kite flyer who is the villain's ally. History of the Men Who are Battering for Championship

McGraw is Irish, a Scrapper, and Has Earned the Sobriquet of "Pugnacious" McGraw—Mack, Leader of Athletics, Always Cool-Headed—Is Always Ready

Philadelphia, Oct. 24.—While the Athletics and Giants are fighting on the diamond for world supremacy, another battle will be waged behind the scenes, so to speak. Little of this contest will the fans see, but it will be just as fiercely fought and the result will be equally as important as the melee on the field. Reason—The winner of this clash will by virtue thereof bring victory to his team on the field.

Connie Mack on the one side, "Bugsy" on the other; meaning Cornelius McGillicuddy versus John T. McGraw. The latter, gallant skipper of the Giants, has often been referred to as "the little Napoleon" of baseball. Will his rival prove the "Nappy Wellington"?

Herewith are given brief sketches of the principals and their working methods.

John J. McGraw

He is Irish, he is a scrapper, he has been called "pugnacious John McGraw." When McGraw starts something, he generally finishes it—generally, which means whenever it lies within the realm of possibility. He is a worker. When he doesn't accomplish that which he attempts, it is because he is not equal to the task—not because he did not try hard enough. He puts forth every ounce of effort he possesses, "lives" the task he is undertaking.

"The way to achieve success," says McGraw, "is to make good right at the spot where you happen to be now." This epitomizes the story of John McGraw's career.

He knows a ball player when he sees him, either a gem in the rough or a polished, perfected veteran. Let a man make even a mistake in the field, and McGraw knows more than he does. McGraw knows more than he does. McGraw knows more than he does.

McGraw is a scrapper, a worker, but all this would be wasted virtue if there were not the brains to guide McGraw has the brains. Apparently impetuous and responding to the impulse of the moment, he is in fact a different proposition. He thinks so quickly in tight places that he can outpace rapid thought. CHICAGO WILL NOT PLAY CANADIAN GAME

Hockey Will Be Dropped by Windy City Athletes for the Coming Winter—May Be Revived

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 21.—According to a circular, the announcement made by Charles H. Hermann, of the Ice Palace, there will be no indoor ice hockey in this city this winter. The great Canadian sport was revived only last year.

"We have decided to abandon the sport last winter was in some measure a success, but not enough to warrant our continuing it this year. The Ice Palace will be turned over to some other form of amusement, but what that will be we have not as yet determined."

It was also rumored at the time that the Ice Palace would be abandoned and that another rink would be built either on the north side or on the property just north of the present White Sox park, in which to hold the indoor hockey league game.

There was not much interest manifested in the movement, however, and Mr. Hermann decided that it would be a hopeless task for one man to alone foster the game, although he considered that the formation of a league would make the sport profitable.

Last year many Chicago sport-lovers were converted into enthusiastic hockey fans, and a number of games were played, not only between local teams, but with good teams from Canada and the north-west. In these international and inter-sectional matches Chicago players more than held their own with their more experienced opponents, and prospects were considered bright for the organization of a first-class team in Chicago this winter.

Frank Hiney will be at New Haven again this fall, to help coach the Yale squad.

A Providence merchant has been a great help to the Brown squad in securing out new players.

Captain J. of the Holy Cross eleven has been out of the game on account of a lame shoulder.

Glen Warner, of the Carlisle coach, is using heavy men on the ends to carry the ball on his own shift.

Walter Camp played on six Yale elevens and was captain of three of them, in 1878, 1879, and 1881.

The University of Chicago eleven are using the Harvard pass to the limit this season, and using it successfully.

Joe Penitenti has been appointed referee for the Penn-Michigan game, November 15, and for the Penn-Cornell game on Thanksgiving day.

Rogers, who was playing left tackle for Harvard, is out of the game because of an operation for appendicitis. Probably he was about the strongest man on the Crimson squad.

All the college teams are now playing games for four 15-minute periods, under the old conditions of football, full-time halves never were played until the middle of November.

SENIOR LEAGUE.

The weekly double header in the senior basketball league will be played tomorrow night. The first game will be between Varsity and Burnside and the second between the Business Men and the Keystones.

Pitcher "Babe" Waddell is visiting Manager Joe Caullion of the Athletics team, at Bedford Lake, Kentucky. Joe has a handsome winter home at the lake.

HALL BREAKS DOWN AS HEARS SENTENCE

WEEPS BITTERLY WHEN JUDGE PASSES FIVE-YEAR TERM IN PENITENTIARY

Walter L. Hall, reported robber and jury of an honorable of justice, broke down in court this morning when sentence of five years imprisonment was pronounced by Mr. Justice Macdonald, and left the court house weeping bitterly. He was found guilty on Saturday afternoon on the first of a series of charges which had been preferred against him, and it is now probable that all of these charges will be dropped.

Hall will be confined in the Alberta penitentiary, where an Edmonton business man whose the prisoner has been identified in various papers for a crime of a previously similar character is now serving his term.

THE BASTILE FOR WOULD-BE VOTERS

THEY CHANGE THEIR AGE FOR CONVENIENCE SAKE, SAY ASSESSORS

"I don't see through with them. I am going to put some of the men who applied for the franchise in jail," was the exclamation of Assessors McMillan this morning when he was told by a Capital reporter as to the number of voters who have been added to the list under the name of the "Cores" connected to the city charter.

Mr. McMillan added that proceedings for getting such a number of voters added to the list of the franchise for the franchise. "When they come before me they look as much as they were over twenty-one years of age," he said, "but when I turned over their names to Mr. McMillan they were all over twenty-one, and the only other thing, they said they were under age."

The work of obtaining the new voters' list is proceeding rapidly. Mr. McMillan expects that it will be complete by about tomorrow, and then the list of the court of revision will have to be made. There will be an addition of about 2000 voters to the list. Especially many of these are found among the voters who are under 21, although the assessed the number that the number would be very small indeed.

Rev. M. E. Harris of the Methodist Mission house, Toronto, is a visitor in the city. He is staying at the Grand hotel and will leave for the north in the course of the next few days in the service of Mission work of the church in the Northwest.

As a result of a number of freight cars being damaged near Sheridan, Saskatchewan, all C.N.R. passenger trains were many hours late yesterday. The train due to arrive in Edmonton at 7:30 yesterday morning did not arrive until early this morning.

"Not being able to secure tickets in time," as trucks, our own men had to turn out," said Councilman, at the St. James hotel this morning. "It was an unexpected tramp through mud and water up to the knees, an experience that none of us were used to. We got the prisoners on their way in to Smith Landing, at Boldre-ridge on October 14. They were loaded on boxes and had traveled that far in good condition. When McDonald, the first woman for the district between Grand Rapids and Fort McMurray, came with us to Altona, Ontario."

Councilman and his party left the Landing on Sunday, to come to Edmonton. They drove by the bank of the St. James creek and there burned a construction train, which took them to a bridge. They arrived in Edmonton from Montreal on the regular train last night. Included in the party were J. A. Miller, E. Brown, W. Swanson, W. W. Finn, R. L. Frank, Frank Coleman, J. W. Bowers and D. Brown.

FORT MCKAY OIL PROSPECTORS HERE

RETURN FROM NORTH AFTER SUMMER'S WORK ON CLAIMS OF ATLASGASK SYNDICATE

After spending the summer in the oil and asphalt fields of Fort McKay, having for oil on the claim staked by the Athabasca syndicate, a party of men, under Colonel Finn, of Vancouver, arrived in the city late last night from the north. The claim on which the men were working on during the summer in eight miles below Fort McKay, and the trip to Edmonton was made in twenty-two days. Indian trackers were impossible to obtain, owing to the fact that they all were engaged in securing a winter's supply of furs.

Splendid progress was made with the boring operations, according to Colonel Finn, a total depth of 300 feet being reached. The party left Edmonton on the trip north, taking all their equipment with them, early in July, and arrived at the scene of operations on the first of the month. Twenty-one days of work, the wells, was completed, and the interesting fact the men had not any longer required to erect a 25-foot derrick; they had made a derrick and raised up the river bank over 75 feet in height, at that point and had built the derrick and installed the machinery. Good progress was made with the drilling from the first and the 300-foot-deep hole has been reached when the work closed down for the winter, in September 4.

Twenty-four men came from the oil and asphalt fields with Colonel Finn. Nine of these were his own men, and the rest had been working with the two outfits on claims controlled by Alfred Vaiden. The trip to Athabasca Landing from Fort McKay was made in a single snow, and if the party had been a few days later it would have been impossible for them to enter through. They found it very difficult to track the horses in the daily weather.

"Not being able to secure tickets in time," as trucks, our own men had to turn out," said Councilman, at the St. James hotel this morning. "It was an unexpected tramp through mud and water up to the knees, an experience that none of us were used to. We got the prisoners on their way in to Smith Landing, at Boldre-ridge on October 14. HALFBREED BOY IS DROWNED IN NORTH

FIRE WATER RESPONSIBLE FOR TRAGEDY—ARRESTS MAY FOLLOW—POLICE INVESTIGATING

Word was brought to Edmonton this morning of the drowning near the Boiler Rapids on the Athabasca river, of Eugene Brunson, a half breed and the son of the Indian interpreter for the Mounted police at Athabasca Landing. The tragedy occurred under such circumstances as to make it quite probable that arrests will follow, although no action has been taken as yet. According to the best accounts of the occurrence obtainable, Brunson was stuck down stream with the rebound that was being taken by Fort McKay by the Dominion government. Near Boiler Rapids he succeeded in starting some whiskey that was being taken north by two French hunters and trappers. Subsequently Brunson was celebrating the occasion by drinking and as his intoxication grew a part of the fire water into the river. The French who were with him, and who had been drinking with him, saw him plunging after the previous night in the current of the river. His body was swept away and he was drowned before any action could be done toward assisting him. Signs are being taken to arrest those who were with him.

COURT HEARS STORY OF PARENTS' NEGLIGENCE

JUDGE AND JURY LISTEN TO HEARTRENDING TALE OF GIRL'S TERRIBLE AGONY

Charged with causing the death of his eleven-year-old daughter, by his failure to call in a medical man when the little girl was suffering from the effects of an accident in which her clothes were burned from her body, Mr. McDonald was arraigned in the supreme court before Mr. Justice Macdonald and a jury this morning. The story of the accident and the terrible agony through which the girl was compelled to pass before her death, was recounted on the stand this morning.

The parents, who reside in the vicinity of Whitford, were in the habit of carrying on all domestic cooking by a primitive contrivance, which had been built out of doors. On the day on which the accident occurred, the girl was sent out to wash a number of dishes, and owing to the collapse of the somewhat fragile structure, fell into the stove. Her dress caught in the fire, and before she could reach into the house for help, and she sustained a number of terrible burns, from which she subsequently died. The parents gave her the treatment which they considered best, but found to call in a doctor, and three days later the girl died. The case will be concluded this afternoon, when the jury will give a similar verdict will come up for trial.
